BIG PRIZES TO FARM BOYS.

For Best Acre Grown by Lads in Three States, $800 in Gold.

Four Classes in The Weekly Star Plan, Including $200 in Each Division--Schools Invited to Join.

Every boy in this neighborhood will be interested in the $800 in gold which will be given by The Weekly Kansas City Star for the best acres of corn grown by boys in Kansas, Missouri and Oklahoma this year. There will be four classes with a big $200 prize in each class for the boy who grows the best acre of corn. Simple rules will give boys a chance on all kinds of land to win, since practicality of methods and other provisions will allow every boy credit for merit all along the line. With corn grown on the contest acre the boy can enter many other contests for prizes offered by the state agricultural college. Any boy 18 years of age and under can enter the contest.

No boy who grows a contest acre can lose, for if he doesn't win a prize he has produced a valuable crop of corn. Many boys in the South who have been growing corn in government contests sell seed corn at from $2 to $4 a bushel. Seed corn grows best in the locality where it is bred.

Boy corn breeders can make money in every neighborhood. Also they have a chance to win the big Weekly Star prize, and on top of it all every boy's contest plot will make for a bigger yield of corn in the community.

All the boys are wanted in the contest. It is easy to enter and The Weekly Star charges nothing at any stage of the game.

It is a big corn growing race for the boys, with all the fun of a contest and lots more to it besides. The pupils of entire schools are invited to join. Contestants must enter now.

The state agricultural colleges in Kansas, Missouri and Oklahoma will feature The Weekly Star contest in connection with many prizes offered the boys and girls on the farm.

Write at once to The Weekly Star, Kansas City, Mo., and receive entry blank and learn all about the contest.

The Weekly Star is the most comprehensive farm paper. All the news intelligently told. Farm questions answered by a practical farmer and experimenter. Contains exactly what you want in market reports. One year, 25 cents.

England's Coal Strike.

More than a million English coal miners are on strike for increase of wages and better working conditions. Their strike has seriously menaced industry throughout the United Kingdom, and interfered with commerce. It is estimated that this strike has already deprived a million more men and women of employment. It is the greatest strike that the world has ever had.

The government has undertaken to intervene and has submitted proposal after proposal, none of which has yet been satisfactory to the miners. There seems to be no disposition on the part of the miners immediately to reach a settlement. They have a considerable defense fund and, as Mr. Harvey, a labor member of parliament puts it, they propose to use this fund and not be in a hurry, as were the railroad strikers who obtained little or nothing by their haste. This would seem to indicate that any compromise reached must be decidedly in favor of the miners.

The strike places the liberal majority in a very delicate position. In a large measure this majority was created by labor votes. While not closely affiliated, English unions sympathize with each other, and, in this strike, are lending every assistance possible to the miners. One labor leader is quoted as having said that the combined defense funds of more than $20,000,000 were at the disposal of the miners. This means a determined and long-drawn-out struggle, if the mine owners continue their present defiant attitude.

Funny Mr. Comstock.

Anthony Comstock, of New York, the self-constituted censor of American morals and manners, has made another blind and daring dash for fame in raiding a group of wax models in a New York store window. Versatile Anthony can be depended upon to strike a telling blow for home and morals when there is any chance of breaking into the first page of the newspapers. In declaring war upon wax models Anthony calls attention to a long overlooked and insidious peril. Who knows how many young and promising men now serving time in prison date their downfall from their first accidental glance at a wax model for a hose or a corset exhibit? This awful peril to the innocence of our youth must and shall be shattered.
